SEE COOLIDGE SENATOR FROM HIS HOME STATE

Former President Not Looking Unkindly on Move To Put Him in Congress

GROUNDWORK PREPARED

Time Also Reported Candidate and Trouble May Be Found There

BY GLOBE B HOLMES
Marion Star Staff Writer

WASHINGTON March 26—Senator Coolidge of Massachusetts at Washington heard with marked interest today that the president is looking not unfavorably upon a movement begun by some of his Massachusetts friends to elect the United States senate next year

If such a thing eventuates Mr Coolidge would be following the precedent set by another distinguished state president John Quincy Adams 100 years ago retired from the presidency and then returned to Washington as a member of congress

The political groundwork in Mr Coolidge's case is already being prepared according to word reaching political circles here It is in the hands of former Senator William M Butler who managed the Coolidge campaign in 1924 and Frank W Stearns who throughout Mr Coolidge's occupancy of the White House was his political shadow coming and going almost as a member of the family

Presumably this groundwork is being prepared with Mr Coolidge's consent for if he did not regard the project with some favor he could put it with a word Thus far there has been no such word

Gillett Holds Post

The senate seat in question is now occupied by Senator Frederick H Gillett who is approaching his seventieth birthday and who by the 1930 campaign would be getting close to 80 Senator Gillett is not expected to be a candidate to succeed himself

However there is another candidate in the picture in the person of the late former governor of Massachusetts Alvan T Fuller who has just laid down the governorship at the end of his term He is independently wealthy and desires to engage in some public service He was a week-end guest of President Hoover's last week end and told friends here that he was inclined to run for the senate next year

Fuller Highly Regarded

Fuller is highly regarded by the Hoover administration for in those days pre-convention days when former Senator Butler and Stearns

So They'll Not Sow

Solons Decide Against Buying Seed for Airport

BY W T BUCHANAN
Marion Star Staff Writer

TWO weeks ago last Tuesday night a lengthy discussion of agricultural matters arose in the city council chamber at the city building about seeding what is now the municipal airport Council was materially interested in the scraping process All it was concerned with was the seeding

The discussion brought out many facts from the city engineer who asked council to authorize the purchase of $500 worth of timothy and alsike for seeding 70 acres of the 151 acre municipal airport Incidentally proposed to sow the airport land in oats with alsike and clover which he claimed would provide a harvest after the oats crop was harvested when the service directly pointed out the oats would furnish feed for city horses next winter

THIS proposal immediately started an argument on the part of councilmen In the course of 15 minutes there was more advice on scientific farming methods offered than one would hear at a two day farmers institute And the arguments soon revealed that council had neglected its usual custom of thrashing out such weighty subjects in the chamber caucus

One councilman proposed to follow the advice of the safety director Another wanted nothing but oats A third proposed to sow more timothy and no alsike since the white clover seed cost $2.0 a bushel and timothy only $2

SPECULATION as to what was best to sow was not limited to councilmen One spectator from the gallery suggested that the field could be very appropriately sown in bird seed since the field was to be visited by birdmen This suggestion however was not considered by council since it was made in an undertone and was not heard beyond the limits of the gallery

Finally the arguments ceased President R L Prettyman called for a motion There was silence More silence Then Councilman J M Schneider of the fifth ward broke the quiet with Well some of you farmers speak up

A motion was offered authorizing Director Benedict to

SAYS WOMAN SHOT AS SHE SOUGHT HELP

Former District Attorney Contradicts Statement of Illinois Dry Raiders

HUSBAND CLUBBED

Boy Shoots Officer in Leg as He Sees Parents Attacked

AUBURN Ill March 26—"No search warrant was ever issued for Joseph De King I have no other recourse than to release him

This statement came as a bombshell today in the investigation of the dry raid upon the De King home here in which Mrs De King was shot and fatally wounded and her husband beaten

Sheriff E E Eich made this statement at noon today

AUBURN Ill March 26—At the charge that Mr Lillian De King 48 year old mother was shot down and killed in her home while she was trying to telephone to her attorney for help was made here today by Robert A Milroy former assistant United States district attorney and counsel for the De King family

That version of the killing was credited Milroy stated by Gerald De King 12 year old son of the slain woman the only witness capable at this time of telling the story of the dry raid the shooting and the clubbing of De King who is in a hospital unconscious after the butt of a shotgun had crashed over his head

Milroy contradicted the statement of dry officers that Mrs De King was killed when she seized a weapon and tried to fire upon the men according to their story

Milroy said Mrs De King was talking to him over the telephone a few minutes after the raiders are alleged to have broken into the home and he heard her cry "My God" simultaneously with the sound of a shot Milroy said the wire then went dead and he rushed to the home to find it empty

Boy Shoots Raider

The youth who saw his mother dying on the floor and his father unconscious grabbed a revolver from the father's outstretched hand and shot one of the raiders in the leg He verified the story of the former federal prosecutor

Both versions of the raid are to be told today at an inquest

Dry Shooting Shocks Capital

WASHINGTON March 26—The shooting of an Illinois woman in her own home before the eyes of her small son by state prohibition agents aroused unfavorable comment in congressional circles today

Even the dry drys were shocked at the story of the killing of Mrs Lillian De King

Ills infamous said Senator King Democrat of Utah who is a dry Many of these prohibition agents act upon the assumption that they are subject to no law and to no restraint and that the homes and persons of individuals are possessed of no sanctity and can be invaded in a ruthless manner The prohibition authorities have no right to pursue such a ruthless course

NEAR-PANIC FACED BY STOCK MARKET

Stocks Thrown Overboard as Money Disappears from Street

NEW YORK March 26—Wall Street faced a condition of near panic in mid-afternoon today as money supplies practically disappeared from the big speculative district

Stocks were thrown overboard by big and little speculators all over the country in their frenzy to unload

With Wall Street hard unable or unwilling to come to the aid of the sorely stricken stock markets call and time money dwindled to the vanishing point The rush to sell values which had worked up considerable momentum in Monday's terrific decline continued without interruption

Facing losses of two to 10 points a hundred stocks sold today at the lowest prices of the year

The Marion County Children's Home with all of the care on the Marion Delaware pike is presided over by father and mother Mr and Mrs W F Niles and made one of the liveliest homes in miles around by the pranks and cares of 79 children ranging from 18 months to 13 years

The home has reached the limit of population allowed by the State fully trained commission and is brimming over with children a veritable bit picture of the Mother Goose rhyme

There was an old woman who lived in a shoe
She had so many children she didn't know what to do

Except that these children are always busy and they aren't given both without any bread and whipped all round and sent to bed

ATTITUDE ON RELIEF PUZZLING CONGRESS

Hoover's Desires for Agriculture Bill Cloaked in Silence

WASHINGTON March 26—While national farm leaders sought to agree upon a specific form of farm relief congressional leaders today wondered whether President Hoover favors the Brookhart agricultural stabilization bill

The silence of President Hoover on agricultural relief was broken partially by Senator Smith W Brookhart Republican of Iowa who told the senate agriculture committee that the president favored the bill The president however has told other congressional leaders that he has no specific recommendation to make before submission a measure to congress at the special session he ordered for April 15

The senate committee meanwhile continued its hearings hopeful of receiving some word from the White House Committee members have studied the Hoover campaign speeches but found only generalities whereas they wish a specific plan as a substitute for the equalization fee which President Coolidge vetoed and which Hoover has opposed

WOMAN DRUGGED BY 2 ROBBERS; RINGS STOLEN

CLEVELAND March 26— Elsie Peitel 16, is recovering today from the effects of being drugged by two robbers last night. Miss Peitel went to the former home of her parents last night to arrange to have some furniture moved Two men came into the house and one of them thrust a handkerchief, which she believes was saturated with chloroform, into her face, she told police. Her mother found her unconscious, shortly after midnight. Miss Peitel's diamond engagement ring and diamond earrings had been stolen.

Foch Laid To Rest While Thousands Bid Farewell To Great French Marshal

Famous Notables, Including Prince of Wales and Gen John J Pershing in Funeral Procession, Rites Are Brief and Simple

PARIS March 26—Marshal Ferdinand Foch idol of France found eternal rest today within the shadow of the sarcophagus of Napoleon beneath the mighty gold dome of the Invalides

Nations mourned while a solemn funeral service was held this morning in the ancient and historic Cathedral of Notre Dame This mourning was symbolized by the representatives who gathered at the cathedral from many countries both far and near

After the service the coffin containing the body was placed upon a gun carriage after the fashion of military leaders in death and borne slowly through the streets to the Invalides where several crowds stood silent with bowed heads

Services Brief

The funeral service at the cathedral was brief and simple in keeping with the simplicity of the dead

There was one regrettable incident that took place as the coffin was being carried from the cathedral to be placed upon a gun carriage

The press of the mighty throng and the clutter of horses hoofs as the troops got into formation frightened three of the animals One of them reared and threw his rider who suffered a broken leg The plunging horse was immediately caught and subdued by other cavalrymen

Mass Is Offered

There was a low mass offered by the rector of the parish church that Marshal Foch attended and a final eulogy delivered by Cardinal Dubois archbishop of Paris

In assemblage within the church included French state and military officials of high degree and distinguished men from abroad They included President Doumergue of France Premier Poincare and the French cabinet the diplomatic corps the Prince of Wales representing King George and the British empire Prince Charles of Belgium and numerous others

Detachments of British Italian Belgian Czechoslovakian and African troops came to Paris for the funeral forces on their gave the cortege an international military appearance

FLIERS SPAN OCEAN, FAIL TO MAKE RIO

Forced Down at Bahia, 500 Miles North of Their Goal

LONDON March 26—Although they ran short of fuel in making a transatlantic non-stop flight from Seville, Spain to Brazil Capt Francisco Jimenez and Capt Ignacio Iglesias were forced to land at Bahia, approximately 500 miles north of Rio De Janeiro, said an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Rio this afternoon

The airmen had planned to fly to Rio without a stop and then continue southward if their fuel held out and weather conditions were satisfactory, but, according to the Exchange Telegraph, they were compelled to land even before getting to Rio.

Two exchange Telegraph dispatches were received from Rio The first said it was reported the fliers had landed at Bahia The second said it was confirmed that the landing had taken place and that the men came down at the Commercy airdrome. It was assumed their fuel ran short.

Another Democrat Given Secretaryship By Hoover

WASHINGTON, March 26—Another Democrat has joined the official family of President Hoover.

He is French Strother, the writer. He will be, in effect, the "literary secretary" of the new regime—the fourth secretary of the president.

Strother will have two duties. First, he will be expected to advise upon national matters such as the letter from the proud mother of twins that has flooded Mrs Hoover with congratulations and requests for suggestions for names. Second, he will be charged with delving into the historical background of any occasion the president chooses for a speech, this background to be worked into the address.

Selection of Strother was taken as another indication of the president's desires to surround himself with assistants he regards capable, regardless of their political

CITY COUNCIL PASSES MOVIE LICENSE LAW

Rigid Rules Provided for Projectionists in Local Theaters

PURPOSE EXPLAINED

Intended To Protect Public, Backers Say, Will Name Board of Examiners

All persons who operate motion picture projection machines in Marion theaters in the future must be licensed as the result of an ordinance passed by city council last night The ordinance provides for the formation of a board of projection examiners

The ordinance has been signed by Mayor Emery Murphy

Under the terms of the ordinance the board will be composed of three members the city fire chief being an ex officio member and chairman The two other members are to be licensed projectionists with three years' experience They will be appointed by the mayor

The new ordinance is aimed according to its backers the projectionists themselves to protect the public against possible fires resulting from inexperienced operators in projection booths

Experience Required

The ordinance makes it impossible for anyone to obtain a license who has not at least one years experience as an operator A projectionist from another community must furnish proof that he has had three years' experience before he will be admitted to examination by the board Local projectionists however who have had three years experience will be licensed without examination No person under 21 years of age will be licensed

Examinations for license will be conducted when the board deems it

Radiogram Says Liner Over Ionian Sea; Passengers Enjoying Trip

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, March 26—The Graf Zeppelin, making a 5,000 mile, four day, non stop flight from Germany to the Holy Land, was believed to be off the Greek coast at noon today.

Radiogram from the great air liner shortly after midnight said she was out over the Ionian sea, having crossed the Italian coast, and would probably reach Crete before noon today

The 25 passengers, including three women, were reported in excellent health and enjoying the trip immensely, especially the rugged scenery of south European coasts.

Weather conditions have been good and Dr. Hugo Eckener, director of the flight, has encountered no mechanical troubles. The big air ship, Dr. Eckener reported, has behaved in the most satisfactory manner.

The Zeppelin has passed over parts of Switzerland, France and Italy and over the Island of Corsica, the birth place of Napoleon.

Human Traits Much the Same Throughout the World, Marion Woman Finds in Extensive Travels Abroad

Sulu Women Have Vanity Cases, but Paint Their Teeth Black

Mrs Frank Sifritt Tells of Contact with People of Many Nations

BY EDNA KESSELRING

"My vision now covers a scope of time from Homer to Confucius, from the present back 4,000 years as the result of an inside view of the lives of people in the four corners of the earth," is the way Mrs Frank Sifritt of 729 South State st sums up the benefits of her extensive travels in foreign countries as well as her own country.

She has been asked by her many friends to give her opinion on the effects of travel on races internationally viewpoint.

In response to the request she has discussed her visits to various countries, experiences which she has had with persons of various nationalities.

Mrs Sifritt has an exceptionally large fund of first hand information regarding the world in general for she is entitled to the distinction of being among Marion's first women to travel around the world.

Her most interesting trip, however, was to the Philippine Islands where she fulfilled the slogan "See America First." She discovered America left nothing to be desired, for she found in the Islands of an oft told story left.

The primary purpose of her trips abroad which she took in company with her brother, Ralph Parlette, a well known and lecturer was to gather enough human interest stories and observations of foreign countries and people in order that the book, The Globegadders Diary might be written and published by Mr. Parlette.

Writing Book

She is also engaged in writing a travel narrative for children which she hopes to publish in a Boston newspaper and later to be a form of her curious and interesting ability to carry across her ideas so that even the youngest readers can grasp them her book should be one of the best and most interesting of its kind.

"In my mental map China used to measure about three inches but now I can see China as a country with three times as many humans as America and India as having double the American population. Mrs Sifritt says in speaking of how travel has expanded her conception of other nations.

"Today a man kneeling before Buddha is my brother a woman in India spinning her prayer wheel is my sister. It has increased my horizon, and made my mind expand so that I am capable of having an international viewpoint."

Mrs Sifritt has also the distinction of having been among the first persons to enter the front door of about 30 different countries since she fulfilled the slogan "See America First." She discovered America left nothing to be desired, for she found in the Islands of an oft told story left.

The primary purpose of her trips abroad which she took in company with her brother, Ralph Parlette, a well known and lecturer was to gather enough human interest stories and observations of foreign countries and people in order that the book, The Globegadders Diary might be written and published by Mr. Parlette.

Collects Mementoes

While traveling through these countries Mrs Sifritt assembled a large collection of all the real treasures she could buy. In her journeys through the Oriental countries she made a collection of fans because they are used extensively and typify the lines of art there.

In Egypt Mrs Sifritt was fortunate in obtaining a genuine scarab that is engraved in the British museum and is at least 10,000 years old. She explains that the scarab is a small hard-shelled insect something like the American beetle. Scarabs were interested with the bodies of old Egyptian kings and are petrified by the embalming fluid used in the burial preparations.

There is a legend that the scarabs were symbolic guarantees of security for the mighty rulers in their last resting places.

The real life and customs of the people of foreign countries show them to possess the same human qualities as we of the west in world although the American people as a rule are unable to view them in that light.

Feminine vanity and quest for beauty although in a different form was expressed in the Sulu Islands just as in Marion and other American communities according to an experience which Mrs Sifritt had in that far away land.

While passing through a Sulu village with a group of head hunters Mrs Sifritt noticed native women sitting in front of their homes stirring something in large iron pots hanging above fires.

Curiosity got the best of her and woman like she looked over one of the fires to see what was in the pot. Immediately the native women seemed to understand that here was a woman from another land who possessed the same feminine trait of inquisitiveness common to all and they greeted her with smiles and other signs of friendliness.

Poor Tooth Paste Market

The exchange of greetings continued in a strange fashion when the dusky native women pointed to their opened mouths and then to Mrs Sifritt's. She parted her lips in response and then perceived that the women's teeth were black as coal. Not content with blackening their teeth the American women smear a paste to a proud of hearty color.

A rival of enjoyment for the American was seen forthcoming. Mrs Sifritt turned around to find a trip on the rubber to behold an old Sulu woman with only a few black teeth left, and long gray hair streaming down over her rather dirty calico. She smiled and the toothless old lady did likewise. The obliging old lady took Mrs Sifritt to her tent and from the folds of her robe drew a little box about the size of an average thread box.

Upon the opening of it Mrs Sifritt saw the native Sulu woman's compact. In it was a crude brush and a little pot of black substance which the native began to stir vigorously. She explained her mouth and then pointed to her guest. Of course the plan didn't work out, but she was displaying hospitality by offering to paint Mrs Sifritt's teeth black too.

After relating the incident to an learned professor in Cleveland on time a little later Mrs Sifritt learned that there is a firm in Pennsylvania which manufactures black teeth for the people of this island. The natives undoubtedly think it a great convenience to possess a set of teeth first or second handed that will always stay beautifully black without the tedious progress of staining.

While traveling through India Mrs Sifritt and her brother were honored with an invitation from Rajah Inderkaran Dhuder of Indore to partake of an evening meal at the palace. Such an invitation extended to a white man and especially an American with us is the as an act of utmost confidence and esteem.

Family Looks On

The American people arrived at the palace on time and were placed at a low table that was well filled with food that was rather disillusioning. The home was beautiful in a large magnificent way but the food was poorly prepared and equally poorly served. They ate at the table alone with the Rajah and his honorable family of four wives and numerous children standing at attention watching them. They would ask them to their home to eat but it was more than impossible for a Rajah or a person with the blood of a Rajah course in, through his veins to condescend to eat the same food or sit at the same table with a white person of low caste. When the meal was finished the remaining food was thrown away and the serving utensils destroyed.

The royal family was pleased to make their visitors comfortable, but they were the first ones that could break away from the strong bonds of the caste system that still prevails in that country.

Mrs Sifritt relates that during the meal one of the children edged near the table and when his appetite conquered his training he seized a bite of food that the guests had been eating, and placed it in his mouth. He was ordered begged coaxed threatened and even bribed to remove the unholy food but he refused. Therefore the little boy was defiled and had to have his system cleansed by drinking hot oil a number of times.

During their stay with the Rajah, Mr Parlette asked permission to photograph the royal family in a group but the privilege was refused. The head of the family however gave the American a splendid photo of himself which is duplicated in The Globegadders Diary but explained that it was against their traditions and ideals to photograph a Rajah with his wife or wives. He said he couldn't imagine anything more degrading than to have his picture in an American paper with his wife at his side. It is just an old custom but another one that he did not care to break.

ASKS IMPROVEMENT OF POWHATTAN ST.

C D. Schaffner Files Petition, Outlines Home Building Program

Having constructed three new houses on Powhattan st and laid plans for the erection of 14 more C. D. Schaffner realtor and builder petitioned city council last night to construct a concrete curb and gutter along this street.

He offered to furnish the stone and grade the street provided the curb and gutter is put in by the city. Schaffner points out that the construction will add $100,000 to the tax duplicate of the city. The matter was referred to the street and alley committee.

A petition was presented for the construction of sidewalk on the west side of Summit st from the end of the present walk to the city corporation line. This was also referred to the street and alleys committee.

Fellowship of Prayer

Daily Holy Week Devotion

Theme for the Week
MY MASTER AND BROTHER

Memory Verse for Tuesday

This shall be the ministry which (Mark 12 31) Christ Mark 10 45 to 44)

MEDITATION Self love is as much a law in the ministry which is treasured and tested all my human relations Of course I must love myself I hate one's self would be the greatest denial I must love my neighbor equally That is my inevitable motive It is easy But it is necessary if I will serve my own life and find joy and peace It is also necessary if I would find the satisfaction of long, useful living I can not do much for myself selfishness shuts defeats itself I can do much for others forgetting myself for their sakes

PRAYER Heavenly Father who hast called me into the fellowship and service of The Son grant that the same spirit which was in Christ Jesus may be in me Put the law of kindness in my heart that with good will and eager feet I may follow where the Master leads In His name Amen

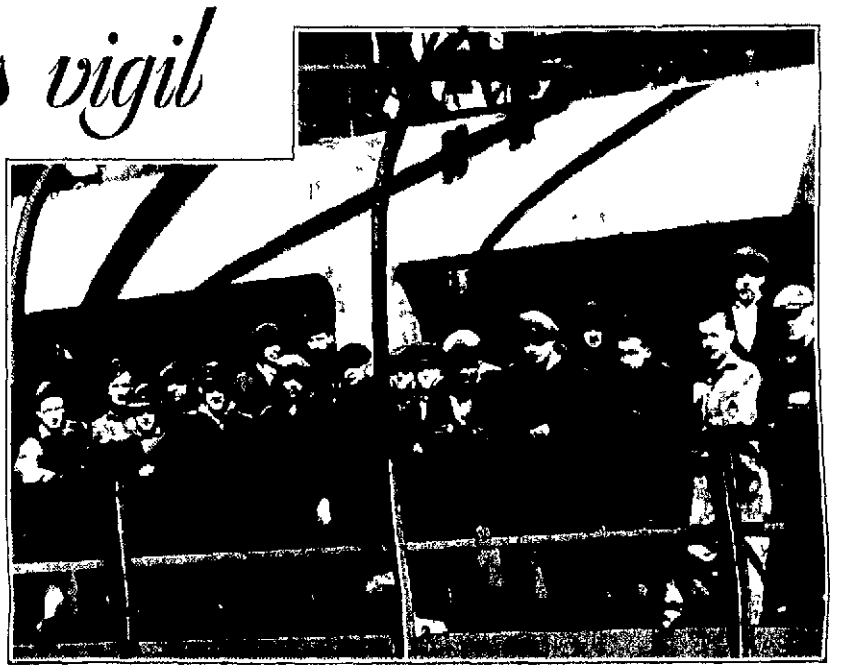
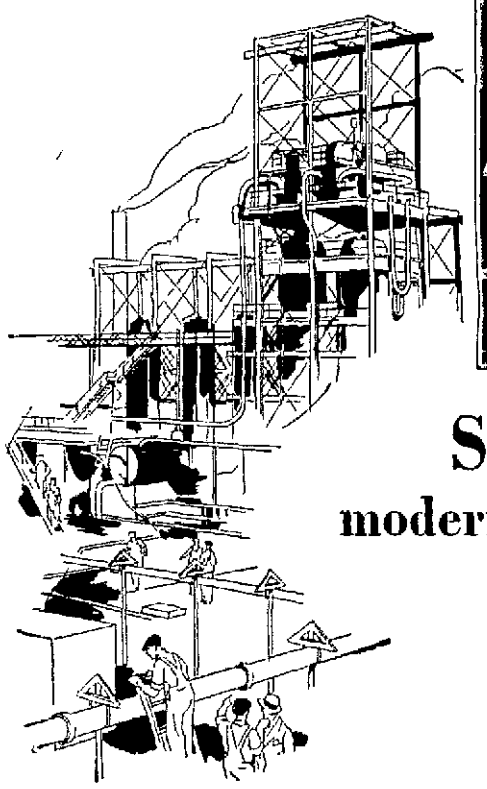
EIGHTEEN EXPERTS keep endless vigil





3 shifts of six experts keep 24 hour vigil at each of the high pressure Sohio units, located in our Cleveland and Toledo refineries These refineries employ the most advanced methods and equipment known to the petroleum industry

SOHIO quality the product of most modern methods and constant human care

EVERY HOUR of the day and night refining experts are on watch at the two great refining units producing Sohio, guarding Sohio's high quality. Each man in the group pictured above (workers in our Cleveland refinery) is an expert in his own particular field, trained through long years in our own plants. Eleven years is the average length of service of these men.

The extensive equipment erected last year to manufacture Sohio high-test Ethyl Gasoline is the most modern in the petroleum industry. Science has contributed her most delicate instruments to keep constant check on Sohio's unusually high specifications.

In spite of this modern equipment and these extra refining processes, Sohio's uniform high quality is largely dependent on the human care given its manufacture. Millions of gallons of Sohio sold during the first six months of its manufacture prove that the guardians of Sohio quality have kept their trust. The 24 hour vigil of these experts is your assurance of Sohio's continued purity.

Try Sohio in your car—today. Test it any way you wish. Find out for yourself what Sohio's extra purity means to your car's performance. You'll know, then, that there IS a difference in gasoline! For sale at Red-White-and-Blue Standard Service Stations and dealers' pumps everywhere in Ohio.

TRY THIS NEW GASOLINE
1 Put it in a car that knocks
2 Use it in high-compression motors
3 Check your mileage
4 Test it for power on hills
5 Watch your oil dilution
6 Note its starting qualities

RED CROWN GASOLINE—The same standards of care and uniformity also control the manufacture and distribution of Red Crown. We make Red Crown ourselves, in the same great plants that produce Sohio, because our customers are educated to a better grade of fuel than ordinary motor gasolines such as we might buy in the open market.

Withholds His Verdict

Coroner Frank G Kreeft who has withheld his verdict pending an investigation by county authorities employed the theory of murder

Declaring it one of the most puzzling mysteries he has run across the coroner stated that he thought that the killer set the home after the people had been murdered in order to conceal the fact of the slaying

The fire was discovered about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon by some school children

They called the lower of the school bus in which they had ridden home but before they got to enter the dwelling All of the windows and doors were locked and a bitter acrid ceiling in battering down the front door the man was unable to enter because of the [illegible] smoke

Rigid Probe To Be Made

The father of the family Gabriel Stager arrived home a few minutes after the fire had been brought under control He was restrained from entering the dwelling until the coroner had arrived

He told authorities that he had been away all night helping [illegible] a nearby town who was selling horses

[illegible] night he told [illegible]

If we are to credit reports, the Mexican rebels only thought they held Mazatlan.

A London cable says the Tory government over there is facing defeat. Isn't that the goal for which its course would indicate it was headed?

Anyway, it can not be held that General Escobar is without a sense of humor. He refuses to fight a duel with General Sanchez on th ground that it wouldn't be military.

The Peruvian minister to Brazil is defending the Monroe doctrine. Here's something almost on the line with the famous illustration of the late Charles A. Davis of what constitutes news—that of the man biting the dog

From Washington comes the announcement that the United States will have a big exhibit at Seville's fair. Aside from its trade advantages, that's a thing for peace with Spain worth a lot more than a whole portfolio full of treaties.

The women of China are said to have taken to boxing. That may pass in China, but the favored method of regulating husbands over here will probably continue to be shooting them in the back "in self-defense."

The German cabinet has decided to exclude Trotzky from Germany. There's a book called, if our memory serves us correctly, "The Man Without a Country," which might make interesting reading for the former New York soap-boxer.

The President Roosevelt and the Caronia have been taken off their Havana run, from which it may be taken that the time is at hand when thirsty Americans in search of relief will course northward to Canada or across the Atlantic to the great European oases.

During the past season there were but two murders in all the vast northland patrolled by the Royal Canadian Mounted police. But, of course, that's the rare anomaly in this day and age—a real police organization.

It is said that Secretary Lamont, of the department of commerce, will get things done without any gale of ballyhoo. Maybe that's why he will be able to do it. It takes time to blow one's horn, both the time of the fellow doing the blowing and that of the people upon whom it is inflicted, as well.

The designs for the fifteen new 10,000-ton cruisers have already been approved. The navy architects are mighty speedy; either that, or the department must have had a strong suspicion that congress would pass the cruiser bill.

A Polish five-dollar-a-week clerk in Warsaw has been sentenced to six months in jail and fined $3,000,000, for which he is to stand committed to jail until it is paid, for manufacturing and selling 30,000 gallons of alcohol and cheating the government out of the tax. Looks easy. If his pay goes on it will take him only 11,538 years and six months to liquidate his fine.

World's Greatest River Chain.

If the report brought back to civilization by Wilhelm Pilchta and Wilhelm Kaap, two German explorers, is to be credited, South America may boast the world's greatest river chain.

The two have just returned to Buenos Aires from a journey of exploration through Paraguay, eastern and northern Bolivia and the southwestern part of the province of Matto Grosso in Brazil, and they set up claim to the discovery that one great river chain extends in crescent shape through the heart of the continent, linking the estuary of the La Plata with the mouth of the mighty Amazon up under the equator, 2,000 miles to the north. It is their claim that the higher affluents of the Paraguay are linked with the lower tributaries of the world's mightiest river, a matter which has long been a hypothesis with geographers, the sources of the Guapore and Mamore rivers, which unite to form the mighty Madeira, the greatest southern tributary of the Amazon, being almost in contact with the numerous streams which form the headwaters of the Paraguay, which, as the Parana, flows into the La Plata and thence to the Atlantic.

Fifty years ago we were taught in school that the Mississippi river chain, which much more properly could have been called the Missouri river chain, was the greatest in the world, but the present indications are that South and not North America has the right to that honor, as well as the right to boast the world's largest river, the river which, in length breadth and volume of flow combined, makes any other river something much like unto a pigmy.

Likely To Prove Embarrassing.

There's a grave possibility that the sinking of the British schooner, I'm Alone, by the coast guard cutter, Dexter, 200 miles off the Louisiana coast in the Gulf of Mexico, with the consequent drowning of one member of the schooner's crew, may prove decidedly embarrassing to our government.

The coast guard service claims that the pursuit and sinking of the I'm Alone was well within the law, which permits of the overhauling at sea of a suspected smuggler if such a vessel is continuously pursued from within the twelve-mile limit.

Such being the law, there is nothing to prevent the overhauling and searching of a vessel escaping, or seeking to escape, from within that limit even though the chase leads half way around the globe, so long as the pursued vessel does not gain neutral waters.

That the I'm Alone was within the twelve-mile limit when hailed by the coast guard cutter, Walcott, is a matter of controversy. The coast guard people claim she was well within the limit; her captain claims she was well without, being at least fifteen miles at sea. But even though she were within and the law is as stated, the case is complicated by the fact that the I'm Alone was not sunk by the Walcott, which first hailed her, and pursued her for well over a day out into the Mexican gulf, but by the Dexter, which, notified of the chase by radio, intercepted the schooner and sent her to the bottom so quickly that one of her crew was drowned in the rush for the boats.

The I'm Alone is admitted by her skipper to have been a rum runner. As a matter of fact, she has been a thorn in the side of the coast guard for years, and it is admitted that she had something like 2,100 cases of liquor aboard, but thus far nothing has been established to show that the coast guard knew she was thus loaded at the time she went down. They acted on the suspicion that she had rum aboard when they first ordered her to heave to and permit a search, which her captain refused to do, a refusal which was repeated by the captain when ordered to heave to by the Dexter just before she was sunk and the living members of her crew taken aboard the cutter to be delivered in irons in New Orleans, a rather harsh course, to say the least.

It is anticipated that Sir Esme Howard, the British ambassador, will file a claim for compensation, on the ground that the sinking was not justified, and that a separate claim will be filed for indemnity for the loss of the life of the member of the schooner's crew, a Frenchman, but a naturalized citizen of Great Britain, both of which moves will be vigorously contested by the coast guard officials, who hold that the sinking was both proper and commendable.

What the full outcome of the sinking may be is problematical, but, as much hinges on the position of the I'm Alone when first hailed, the danger of such a pursuit and sinking may be brought out by this question: Suppose there had been a British warship in range at the time the Dexter fired upon the I'm Alone, 200 miles out at sea, and the warship had, in turn, blown the Dexter out of the water, what would have been the course of our government under such circumstances?

Mr. Coolidge says he believes that he left the country in good condition and that anyway, he has left no foods, which goes to support two old maxims—"Silence is golden" and "The least said, the easiest mended."

General Escobar, the Mexican rebel commander-in-chief, is now attacking the federal government down there by radio, from which even a second-rate guesser might take it for granted that the revolution is on its last legs.

The Pope's decision that his first visit outside the Vatican will be to the Basilica of St. John Lateran, where he will worship June 24, possibly will make known to many the fact that that church, and not St. Peter's, is the first church of Rome and the mother and head of all Roman Catholic churches.

Soviet Russia is now rationing sugar and would be rationing flour had it any to ration. The awful plight of Russia shows that it takes more than a spirit of hatred and ability to pillage and murder to run even a country with a population which is supine.

We note that the season for ocean flying has opened, so it may be just as well for the navies and merchant marines of all lands to be prepared to effect works of rescue at a moment's call. What are the demands of business compared with helping the stunters to places upon the vaudeville stage?

The Russian actress, Thais Valdenar, is suing Karl Dane, of "The Big Parade" fame, who, she claims, failed to marry her after introducing her as his wife. Pshaw, Thais! A little eccentricity like that is not supposed to be taken seriously out in Hollywood.

A new chemical cooler is said to make possible the speeding up of United States army planes to 250 miles an hour. If the army planes are in the shape some of the advocate of new and better planes claim, they would be shaken to pieces before they attained half that speed.

One reason why President Hoover does not care to spend a summer vacation at Mount Weather may be that he is accredited with the purchase of a summer home of his own, Catoctin Manor House, near Frederick, Maryland, where the fishing is more to his liking. But it may be well to remember that every president is not in position to own a summer home of his own

Anita Stewart, who plans a honeymoon tour of the world immediately following her marriage in June is taking grave chances. Any woman is capable of becoming mighty tired of a husband with whom she is compelled to travel for the better part of four months on a boat.

Juices That Build Health.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

In these articles we frequently speak of the importance of taking orange juice, or giving it to infants. Frequently I am asked if there are any other juices that will make up for the deficiencies of the milk or other food.

Tomato juice has the same properties as orange juice. It, too, contains the vitamin C.

This, you will recall, is the agent that prevents or overcomes scurvy. Of course, I do not mean the old-fashioned scurvy, although that, too, was overcome by taking fruits and vegetables containing this substance.

In these modern days we insist on getting a full supply of Vitamin C, in order that we may escape bad teeth. Likewise, it gives us "pep" and energy, overcoming listlessness and laziness and indifference.

The juices of carrots or beets are much less valuable than orange juice, although they possess this particular vitamin. The juice of the Swedish turnip must not be overlooked, because it is practically equal to orange juice.

By giving the juices of these fruits and vegetables is the only way the baby can be supplied with the auxiliary food essential to its good. Of course, older children and adults can get it through the eating of tomatoes, carrots, cabbage, lettuce, spinach, turnips and other fresh vegetables and fruits

It must be recalled that heat destroys this vitamin. Really, it is not so much the heat, as it is exposure to the oxygen of the air. So in cooking these vegetables, they should be kept covered. The vitamins in acid fruits, like tomatoes, are not affected by heat.

Unless there is a never failing supply of foods that carry vitamin C, there will be paleness of the skin, loss of appetite, loss of weight, or in a child, failure to develop physically. No doubt the rapid action of some debilitated persons may be traced to this defect in the diet.

There is a popular idea that certain foods are likely to bring on rheumatism or make it worse. One which is frequently referred to as unsuitable to take when there is a tendency to rheumatic complaints is the tomato. I disagree with this theory. In my opinion, tomatoes, apples, oranges and similar fruits are helpful to the rheumatic patient and not harmful.

It is certainly true that nobody can expect to have good teeth without having the proper diet from infancy onward. The essential minerals and vitamins must be considered in taking food. It is not enough merely to satisfy the appetite.

ANSWER TO HEALTH QUERIES

E. S. T. Q—Will cigarets harm a young girl if she does not smoke often or inhale?

2—What is the result of a young girl keeping late hours every night?

3—What is a good eye wash?

A—If you have not acquired the habit it would be foolish to do so.

2—This will run down the general health.

3—Use a weak solution of boracic acid.

A YOUNG MOTHER. Q—When should a three and one-half months old baby be given orange juice? Is it better just before a feeding or should it be given between feedings?

2—How should cod liver oil be given in the case of a young baby?

A—When the baby is four months old he may have the orange juice every morning, about an hour before the first feeding. In addition to the formula he should have a little cool, boiled water between feedings.

2—The baby may take the pure cod liver oil from a spoon giving it in small quantity at first and gradually increasing the dosage as the baby grows older.—Copyright, 1929, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

THE STATEHOUSE TREES.

Another statehouse tree has been removed. It was located near the north entrance, had been there for years, fought its way through the period of youth and reached maturity only to fall a victim to thin soil that gave scant nourishment and to smoke and poisonous vapors that filled the air about by day and night. That tree will be missed, its removal left an open space that must remain open until the years have brought other trees to commanding size. Not far from where it stood is the little elm put in place years ago by former Governor James E. Campbell. If good fortune attends that promising little elm it will begin to fill the open space in a score of years. It takes a long time to bring a tree to size that makes it important and gives it place among the real trees about the statehouse grounds.

Beneath the soil in the statehouse square one may find large quantities of stone chips, that accumulated when workmen fashioned the stones in the statehouse walls from the huge blocks that were delivered to them. Trees require deep soil if they are to continue healthy and grow through the years, and they can not thrive when their large roots are thrown out in a stone pile. They fight it out to the bitter end, they lose a limb at a time as vitality is reduced and the supply of chemical elements for life becomes scant or fails utterly. The statehouse trees have made their own heroic battle and they deserve a better fate than the ax of the woodman. New trees should be planted, open spaces filled, and the best care should be provided for the trees. They belong to the people of the state, they supply much beauty for the statehouse grounds.—Ohio State Journal.

SIMPLE WORDS.

Is it true that the English language is about to be transformed into a language of short words, spoken with a rapid, staccato utterance? That is the dismal prospect, or pleasant—depending on the way one looks at such things—suggested by a noted philologist.

A language which has dispensed with inflection is on the way to "monosyllabism"—a word which goes comfortably far to correct the tendency which it names. Then there is also the subtle influence of slang, which tends always to invent a short, sharp substitute for any word that places the least strain on the tongue and wind; and popular custom inevitably adapts itself to the line of least resistance. Then, again, there is the influence of the vernacular, which is becoming more and more potent, thanks to its vivid, picturesque and humorous quality, which so easily disarms resentment of its vulgarity.

It is easier to believe that the tendency toward monosyllabism is stronger in English words than in any other language. Any one who dabbles in verse-making is painfully aware of the difficulty of avoiding those strings of monosyllables which are so fatal to rhythm and cadence.

And yet there may be hope. For whatever may be the syllabic degeneration of their language, the English-speaking peoples retain their simple affection for long words. And, after all, the habit of using simple words for simple things isn't all bad. —Bangor Commercial.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, March 25 — Only two professional humorists to my notion suggest their real size—Will Rogers and Irvin Cobb. The rest repose seem on the verge of losing their grip. But Cobb and Rogers have the appearance of getting ready to cut the plate with a fast one.

The solemn mien and manners of the mime have always been stressed and are rarely exaggerations. Ring Lardner, upon those infrequent occasions when he attempts to smile, gives a great imitation of a startled screech owl. There is no record of his giving way to a hearty fit of laughter.

George Ade would certainly not be indexed as cheerful looking. He, too, has a wry stingy smile—the sort the banker indulges when he magnanimously decides to give you three days of grace. Hugs Baer would not look out of place marching with professional pallbearers in Paris.

H. C. Witwer and Sam Hellman have the perpetual expression of having just tasted an alling clam. One of Broadway's cleverest wits—the late Rennold Wolf—had the sharp and unhumorous nose that belongs to the eagle. He was the last man you would suspect could convulse an audience with a quip.

An endless procession of names might be piled up to prove humorists in their physical aspects are about as hilarious as hangnails. The jovial moon-faced fellow with the booming voice and ready laugh fits the picture, but as a rule is a terrible headache.

And this merely substantiates the overworked theme, but two of the saddest fellows I ever met were Silver and Bluch, the clowns I could rock with laughter at their drolleries before meeting them, but afterward I was never able to laugh at them again.

While cartoonists and strip men express a greater liveliness and zest for fun there are any number who to the casual observer might be easily mistaken for sedate types of business men. Stage comedians, however, seem to fit in with their comic calling "on and off."

A rich New Yorker has paid—at least he was billed—$36,000 to a dentist for a difficult bit of removable bridge work. This is reputed the highest price for a job of this sort. However, bridge work, costing from $2,000 to $4,000 is not unusual. With $36,000 bridge work I'd just skip around town laughing with my mouth open all day.

There are few areas in New York where home life is so virile and pleasant as in the Bronx. Aloofness among neighbors so noticeable in other sections is not known. The big apartment-houses are like one big family. Mothers gossip through dumb waiter shafts. Mrs. Ginsberg knows what Mrs. Schmalz is preparing for dinner, and children play all day in the areaways in a happy fraternity. Parents correct neighbors' children without offense. At night while wives listen to the radio and sew, husbands gather in kitchens in shirt-sleeved ease to play the favorite game of the Bronx—pinochle.

Nor is the Bronx much interested in the gay goings on in town. It supports very little "night life," nor are there slumming dives such as are found in Harlem and almost every other section. Driving through the Bronx at midnight one finds almost all apartment houses dark. The Bronx seems intent upon getting on in the world and moving to "The Drive." And it does.

Archipelagos of Space.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

The super-universe is now sweeping the imagination of the whole thinking world to unwonted heights of exaltation. The star islands of distant space have become more captivating than ever were the coral groups of the Southern oceans in the adventurous days of the early navigators. It is likely that this coming summer, when the bow of Cassiopeia corner of the galaxy where the boundary of Scorpio, Ophiuchus and Sagittarius rise in solemn majesty high above the southern horizon on some warm July midnights, new thousands of telescopes will be turned to see the far-off twinkling specks of the hundred million stars which form the stellar metropolis of our particular universe. The true "Columbus of Space" is the American astronomer, Harlow Shapley, who has made known this great centre of the Milky way system.

But, with his associates and competitors, he has likewise disclosed the character of the dimly-seen specks of nebulous light lying far beyond our vast system, which we now call the "island universes." The most conspicuous" except to supreme powers of telescopic vision — are whirling worlds whose fiery spires, made of stars and star stuff, stretch across trillions of miles of space around them—immense tentacled monsters in the fathomless cosmic deep.

Yet each is apparently a Milky way resembling that in which we dwell under the guard of our little sun, a most humble member of the glittering assemblage, where 1,000,000,000 other, and many enormously greater, suns are herded by gravitation. Yet all these herds of glowing stars are shepherded together into a superorder that may exist to infinity. How little and how great is man, an atom lost in this immensity, yet a mind that all but comprehends it.

It is claimed by some that science is generating a new religion. There can be no religion without the recognition of a higher, more perfect power. Astronomy is anything but atheistic. Some might say, however, that it suggests a divine hierarchy. Does a single supernal will govern the details of all this multifold flock of universes? Does a rule in the spiral of Andromeda as in the Milky way? Even the old theocratic system postulate orders of angels and lower celestials. If the Greek mind had to deal with the problem it might invent a Zeus for the super-universe—the universe composed of universes—and Neptunes, Apollos and Dians of the widely separated divisions, the island universes. The Greek would have felt no difficulty on that score, because his religious ideas were aesthetic but not ethical, except with thinkers like Socrates. None of his gods was more than Zeus, the head, was the chief of the rabble. But an ethical religion, such as Christianity, stands on a different basis. This basis is untouched by the physical revelations of science. Earthly physics may admit the possibility of physical laws unknown to us operating in an outside universe; but earthly ethics can suppose only one moral law. The essential principle which opposes right to wrong is unaltered by the contradictions of custom, and will always be found unchanged in character, underlying every ethical question, whether that question arises under one form of civilization or another. Right and wrong—those are the opposed poles of the lodestone of ethics, however varying the precise ideas of what is right and what wrong may be, in consequence of environment differences.

But this is drifting far from inexpressible material magnificence and the illimitable richness of physical suggestion which the new probing and plumbing of the star depths, and even of depths beyond the visible stars, is pouring out before the public like the unloading of a treasure ship from the Indies.—Copyright, 1929, International Feature Service, Inc.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Dr. George Lawrence Parker, reviewing a book by Sir Philip Gibbs, says the greatest thing that has come out of the recent years is the sense of power. Man is on the way to such power that, if he knew how to use it, he might almost control his own destiny. The rub is in his knowing or not knowing how to use it. And how shall power be kept in the right hands? The right hands are the hands of character. The building of character is a thing more fundamental than the acquirement of power.

Franz Schubert died and left great riches to the world—the riches of beauty translated through the glorious medium of music. The who came to look into the attic of Schubert declared that he had died in poverty. It was the poor figure of financial tragedy. Lately a bit of his manuscript sold for $5,000. But that does not establish his wealth. The great riches he left are for those who can appreciate them. Men may die without money, but they need not die in poverty in the larger sense.

Responsible citizens—those who wish the best for their community—owe a duty to the theater, just as they owe a duty to the church and the school. The theater at its best is an institution for education and inspiration. When a great play, produced by men and women of artistic achievement, comes to your town, go and see it. Make such ventures profitable. If they are profitable we shall have more of them. It is within the power of responsible citizens to see that the gold replaces the cheap and the tawdry.

Premises Brightened

Mr and Mrs Niles took positions of superintendent and matron the building has been added on the interior for the time in 16 years At the time the reporter saw it the playroom was being changed from dark brown dirty walls and floor to a light ivory color with green border up from the paint and varnish here used with a lavish hand The paint and varnish were badly needed and when it was finished a week later the entire home was a spotless from the playrooms to the stairs throughout the building

The nursery is one of the most touching parts of the entire home It is a small light room big enough for a baby bed and the mother a woman in charge The last time the woman saw the child was a year ago

Wide Variety

Dear dark-eyed little boys carefree freckle-faced little boys larger boys who are beginning to look after themselves and different ages and ages who need the care and affection that only close personal contact in a small family can give them The home is really a memorial to the children

One of the most commendable points in this most commendable institution is the fact in which children are given small tasks are rewarded and when they come from school at noon

A home in the minds of most people is a place where children are regarded with stern eyes bend brows and commanded not to step on the varnished floors run in the halls or do any of the things that children can't help doing if they are normal

At the Marion County home the children have the run of the house with all the privileges in the world in their own little kingdom the playrooms downstairs Neither do the children regard Mr and Mrs Niles with the awe that is born of all treatment and bad tempers Perhaps this is because Mr and Mrs Niles have had children and grandchildren of their own

In the basement where the playrooms are the school for children in the first second and third grades has been established Miss Della DeLong is the teacher Thirty two children of the home attend Pleasant township school and all are of an age fitting them for work in the home school

Years Cost

The per capita cost of each child in the home in 1928 was $261 18 It was surprising to find out that an astonishingly small group of the children at the home are kept there by money provided by parents guardians or relatives And it also makes a person stop and think when on visiting day parents in big cars dressed well and self satisfied drive up to the home to visit their children for whose keep there they contribute nothing

On one afternoon when the home was visited Mrs Niles was preparing the supper in the absence of the cook The menu for the evening meal was a small order of a six gallon kettle filled to the top with potatoes three gallons of corn boxes of ginger snaps part of the 14 gallons of milk used there each day and the remaining loaves of the 5 loaves of bread ordered at the home every day The bread menu raises to 61 loaves over Saturday and Sunday Tea and cocoa are given the children if they prefer these things to milk

Six cows are tended at the home and the remainder of the milk supply is bought as near as There are 60 acres of ground around the home five acres of which are given to a garden truck patch The land fit for tillage last year yielded 12 acres of hay three acres of potatoes 10 acres of oats and 10 acres of mixed hay for the Three horses are kept at the home

Farm Production

Last year 300 bushels of potatoes were raised at the home and 65 bushels of soup beans after cleaning Mrs Niles does no home canning vegetables and fruits were enough to provide 1100 jars for the supply shelves where supplies are stored the canteen gallon pails and other large quantities of measure

Every Sunday Sabbath school is conducted but no preaching services With the abundance of ministers in the city of Marion it seems that there might be at times themselves as their duty to see that one goes to the Children's home for a short service every Sunday morning

The morning bell sounds through the dormitories at 5 30 o'clock every morning and all hands are on deck for the day On Saturdays the home is cleaned Friday night is bath night for every child in the home

The beds at the home are metallic easily clean and set in separate girls and boys dormitories

Corps of Employes

Employes at the home are William Colvin foreman Mr and Mrs Claude Baker house governors, Mrs Eva Knoch girls governess Miss Mildred Drake nursery governess Miss Lucille Smith dining room governess Mrs Margaret Baughman laundress and Mrs Ethel Romohr cook In the summer a man is hired to assist the men of the home in the farming of the land

The home management is only too glad to find suitable homes for the children there provided the children are given to the home Many people in Marion are not aware that children may be adopted there but this is the case and if many of the childless parents or parents whose own children have grown up could see some of the delightful children of Mr and Mrs Niles there would be more of them provided with the warm love that is every child's birthright

COOLIDGE SEEN AS BAY STATE SOLON

were endeavoring to keep Massachusetts delegates from commitment to one candidate—in the hope that Mr Coolidge might untimately be drafted —was Fuller who is credited with swinging the state into the Hoover camp The psychological effect of that was of very great benefit to the Hoover cause

The former governor is in consequence not unpopular with the Butler Searns faction of Bay State Republicanism They do not regard his senatorial ambition with much warmth Hence they have turned to Mr Coolidge as the one man capable to stop the independent energy error according to reports which have reached Washington

Decision Up to Coolidge

The final decision of course rests with Mr Coolidge While his friends here believe he would accept the senatorship with alacrity if it could be procured without a fight they question whether he could care to engage in a scramble for it against an opponent of Governor Fuller's calibre and popularity in Massachusetts.

It will be some time before the situation crystalizes Meanwhile social and political Washington are gossiping and speculating upon the possibility of the Coolidges returning to the capital

HEARING SET

Green Camp Township Road Petition Down for April 8

Hearing on the petition for vacation of a road in Green Camp township filed by Charles and Winifred Weeks and others was continued to April 6 at 10 o'clock by the county commissioners yesterday

The petition for the vacation of the road filed on Feb 7 gives no reason for the vacation A report filed by Surveyor Cecil R Leavens is opposed to the vacation in that the road now belongs to the county and if vacated it would necessitate the expenditure of public funds to reacquire it and that the county has already spent money on the road The road in question is approximately a half mile in length and is known as road No 44

LAST RITES HELD FOR MARSHAL FOCH

Thousands Bid Farewell to Beloved French Military Leader

reminiscent of the days of the great war when men of a dozen different nationalities fought shoulder to shoulder

Simple Coffin Used

The cathedral service ended shortly before 10 o'clock and the crowd began to move slowly through the massive doors into the streets where heavy forces of soldiers and police were marshalling the crowd

The coffin was bound upon a gun caisson preceded by a standard bearer battle colors draped with crepe and the marshal's horse

The caisson was drawn by six horses

The coffin although containing a figure so distinguished was of plain yellow oak If was another touch of the simplicity so dear to heart of the warrior in life

Great Bell Tolls

Around the gun carriage were grouped French marshals and admirals in uniform

Behind the coffin were the members of the diplomatic corps including Myron T Herrick the United States envoy

The Prince of Wales in uniform walked with Prince Charles of Belgium

As the lines were marshaled and the mourners took their appointed places in the cortege the great bell of the cathedral began to toll An officer at the head of the line gave a command and the column moved forward with solemn slowness In place of cheers and shouts for this famous soldier and favorite son of France there were sobs and sighs of grief But there was pride in the sorrow of the French as they recalled the martial glories of the armies led by this departed warrior and the greater glories of the soldier beside whom he was to lie

In the cortege was a detachment from the American Legion They were men who had served under the marshal when he was generalissimo of the allied armies They wore uniforms and steel helmets

The Garde Republicaine and a squadron of colonials—white robed Arabs mounted on magnificent Arab horses—led the way as the procession turned into the Rue Rivoli

Tattered Flags

They were followed by infantry—war veterans—who had served in the trenches at the front They bore battered battle flags whose tatters told eloquently the history of France upon the field of conflict

Marshal Foch's horse was led in the procession caparisoned with black velvet and silver

Upon the coffin on the gun caisson reposed the marshal's kepi or military cap his sword and his jacket

One notable figure in the line was an American—Gen John J Pershing commander of the American Expeditionary Forces in the great war His tall figure was rigidly erect and he wore the red sash of an officer and the grand cross of the Legion of Honor

NOMINATION HELD

Nomination of officers was held last night at a regular meeting of Marion Lodge No 859 Loyal Order of Moose Election and installation of officers, followed by a banquet, will be held at the next meeting, April 1.

Storm Manipulates Lights To Provide Sermon Scene

An unusual sermon on The Gift on the Altar was preached last night by the Rev Lawrence A Wood pastor of Trinity Baptist church who is conducting protracted services each night this week at the church and the sermon was made even more dramatic and unusual by the condition of electric lighting all over the city last night during the storm

The Rev Mr Wood was in the midst of his sermon and speaking of the darkness that enters life because of trouble with our friends and continued talking of the light that symbolized the reconciliation and establishment of friendship

When the mention of darkness was made the lights went out and when the light that comes with the return and good will of friendship was spoken of the lights of the church came on again

Effectually Timed

"If I had made arrangements with the caretaker of the church I couldn't have had better timing of the lights the Rev Mr Wood said this morning

Last night the Men's class taught by A J Tower and the Mr Williams class taught by Mrs A S Keeler were the special guests of the minister

this Extra Electric Cleaner

Giving 2 cleaners for the price of one
HERE'S an easier, faster way to clean ... without the use of a single attachment. Two electric cleaners—both for the price of one. A big Premier cleaner for the rugs and carpets—and a handy cleaner, the Spic-Span, for lighter tasks.
We want you to test in your own home this new way to speed up housecleaning. It is the climax to Premier's many years of leadership.
The Spic-Span given in place of attachments
The Premier Spic-Span is the result of years of research. It retains all the superiorities of the big Premiers . super-suction, ball-bearings—no oiling! Weighing only four pounds, the Spic-Span can be taken from task to task without waste of time or steps.
It cleans faster and better because it gets its nose close to the dust and dirt. You can plug it into any electric socket and clean mattresses, clothes, stairways, upholstery, automobiles, nooks and crannies everywhere.
Free Demonstration
Why use a big cleaner for little cleaning jobs? With the Premier two-cleaner idea, you can cut your housecleaning hours in half Use, as soon as you're finished with the big cleaner, you drop it and pick up the Spic-Span. No lost motion—no unnecessary strain.
The Spic-Span may be purchased separately for $13 50 or in one of the following combinations. Phone or visit us today and arrange for a private demonstration. No obligation.

Excursion Programs for Season Are Outlined by Railways Serving Marion

Erie Announces Special Rates to Chicago, Big Four Plans Sunday Trains to Cleveland at Cut Rates Pennsylvania Expected To Provide Lake Service

With the advent of spring, western the various railroads which pass through this city are beginning to plan their excursion programs for the summer season. The Erie railroad and Pennsylvania are the roads which in the past have dominated the field of excursion trains, during summer time.

Among the first excursions for spring, announced one over the Erie to Chicago and return on Sunday, April 16. This train will leave Marion at 1:45 o'clock Sunday morning, and returning, will leave Chicago about 8 o'clock that night. The fare is $8 round trip. Other Erie excursions that have been announced are one to Cleveland and return sold last year for $2.25 with the train leaving at 8 o'clock and returning from Cleveland at 6:15 o'clock. It is expected the same arrangement will be in effect this year.

The Pennsylvania road during the past season has sponsored excursions to Sandusky for the benefit of the public, to take advantage of the summer resorts in the vicinity of the lake. Plans of the Pennsylvania for the coming summer have not been announced but several excursions from Marion to the lakes will probably be run.

Miss Mary Dunbar who conducted the very successful cooking school conducted by the Marion Furniture Co. here last September has returned to conduct another cooking school March 27, 28 and 29.

Nothing has been left undone to make this cooking school of exceptional value and interest advance reports state. The lectures and demonstrations will be full of new ideas and methods which Miss Dunbar has run into her travels since September.

Miss Dunbar is the daughter of a state senator from Illinois. She is a graduate of the four year Household Economics course of Simmons college, Boston, Mass. where she received the bachelor of science degree. For several years she owned and operated her own tea room. She has visited cities throughout the country giving lecture demonstrations and is thoroughly informed on the food problem both from the economic and dietetic standpoint.

At present Miss Dunbar is field representative of the Jewel Tea Co. Inc. of Chicago. She spends her time filling engagements with women's clubs, parent teachers associations and the like as well as conducting long schools in cooperation with public service companies, furniture companies and newspapers.

Mimeographed copies of the recipes used at the demonstrations will be given those who attend.

LOCAL ODD FELLOWS GOING TO COLUMBUS

200, Headed by Band, Expected To Take Part in Parade Saturday

A delegation of approximately 200 Marion Odd Fellows, headed by the Patriarchs Militant band of 25 pieces is expected to go to Columbus, Saturday, to participate in a state meeting. A two-day program, for March 29 and 30, has been arranged by Judge M. M. Logan, of Columbus, deputy grand sire of the Grand Odd Fellows' organization, who will be a visitor in Columbus.

The Marion Odd Fellows and their band will march in a street parade, Saturday afternoon, one of the principal features of the two-day program. Judge Logan will address an open session Saturday night.

Plans for the Columbus trip were completed at the weekly meeting of Marion Lodge, No. 58, held last night. Preliminary arrangements were also made for Marion's observance of the 100th anniversary of the founding of the order of Odd Fellows, on April 26. The order was founded in Baltimore in 1819. R. G. Smallwood, R. S. Carter and J. E. Davis were appointed as a committee on arrangements.

It was announced that the Marion County Odd Fellow association will hold a social meeting in Caledonia the night of April 9.

FUNERAL PLANNED

Last Rites for Miss Minnie Wheaton To Be Held Wednesday

Funeral services for Miss Minnie Wheaton, who passed away Sunday night at 11:30 o'clock in the home of C. E. Rice, 194 Forest Lawn blvd., where she had been employed as housekeeper the last two years, will be held Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the funeral chapel of the C. E. Curtis & Co., East Center st. The Rev. George E. Groves, pastor of the Central Christian church, will be in charge of the services. Interment will be made in Marion cemetery.

The body may be viewed at the Curtis Co. funeral home any time after 4 o'clock this afternoon until funeral time Wednesday.

Miss Wheaton, who was 42 years of age, came to this city from Canton, where she had resided since 1914. Most of that time she spent in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Hoopingarner, who are in Marion for the services.

Mrs. Hoopingarner and her children were in Marion to visit Miss Wheaton the latter part of last week. She had evidently been in the best of health until about three days prior to her death, when she began to complain of pains near her heart.

"I SHOULD HAVE HAD KONJOLA THREE YEARS AGO"

Man Well and Happy Because of This New Medicine Tells of Quick Recovery

MR. ALVIN W. ZETTER

"I wish that all who are not well might know what I do about Konjola," said Mr. Alvin W. Zetter, of Fostoria, near Sandusky, Ohio. "If I had known of this master medicine three years ago, when I was stricken with a complication of stomach and liver troubles, and with constipation. I had unbearable headaches and dizzy spells, and my skin and eyes showed plainly that my liver was far from what it should be. After every meal I was a victim of gas and bloating, and bits of undigested food came up into my throat. I was totally discouraged and disheartened.

"When Konjola was recommended I had to laugh. But once I was persuaded to give Konjola a trial. I knew that I had at last found the right medicine, and I was sorry I had not tried it much sooner. Constipation was relieved almost over night, and I was free from every trouble at the end of four weeks, during which time I took four bottles. What a relief it is to be able to be a healthy man again. I should have had Konjola three years ago."

Konjola is different than any other remedy in this section. It contains twenty-two juices extracted from herbs, plants which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system is amazing relief in cases of suffering that has been going on for years. At the same time many weak run-down systems have been restored to a new state of health thru Konjola. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have had of their experience with this new medicinal product, until now, Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this section.

Konjola is sold in Marion at Stamp & Son Pharmacy and by all the best druggists throughout this section.—Adv.

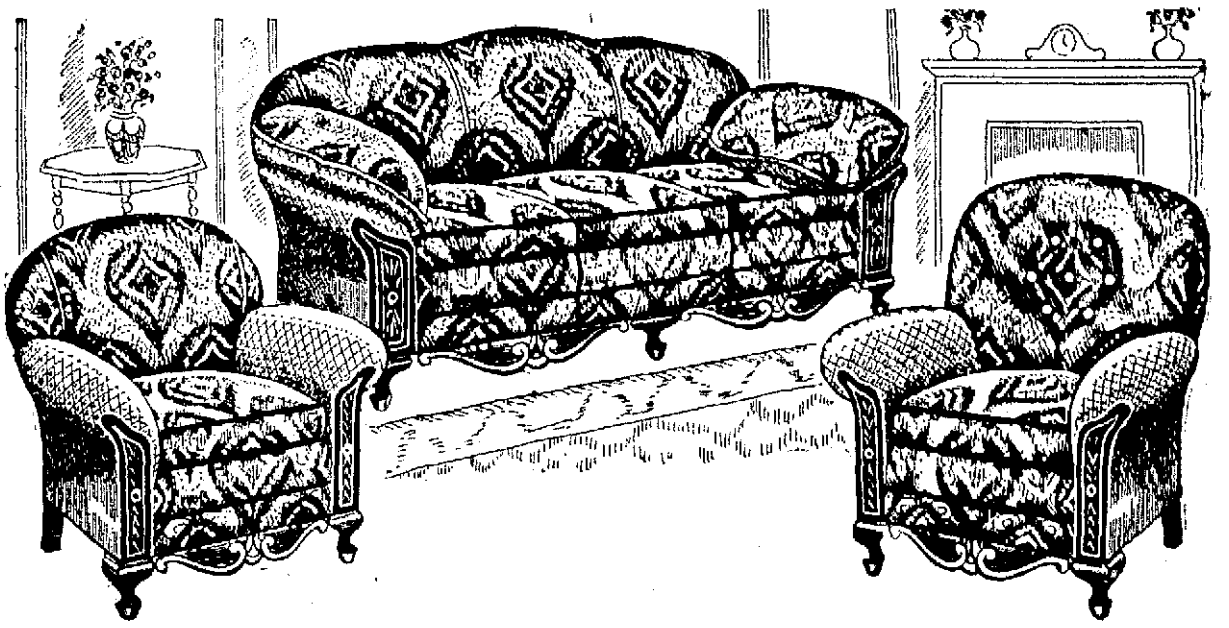
What an account means to you

It is a pretty nice thing to have an account at Schaffner's whether it be a 30 or 60-day charge account, or an extended-payment account which gives you a year (or more if necessary) in which to pay.

It's pretty nice to feel that here is a store that is YOUR STORE—a place where your credit is established, where you can just go in and buy things as you need them—a place where you are acquainted and feel at home, and where most everybody in the store knows you, welcomes you, is glad to see you and anxious to serve you and to please you.

It is the steady and constantly increasing number of customers who have accounts here that has made this store the success that it is. The next time you have furniture or floor coverings to buy we invite you to open an account. Any working man or woman, any business man or woman, can have what credit they need.



"She will soon be a bride"

The happy soon-to-be June brides are beginning to do their looking around, shopping for furniture and floor coverings. It looks as though there are going to be a lot of them.

Here at Schaffner's we do not merely sell furniture for outfits. We sit down, so to speak, and help PLAN the furnishings for the new home. We help young couples to buy, which is different than just selling them things. And we help them with our credit service, so that they can buy all of the things they want and need, and pay for their purchases in a manner that will prove no hardship.

Perhaps that is one of the reasons why Schaffner's are known as "Headquarters for outfits."

P. S. Special evening appointments can be made, so all interested can come. And this incurs no obligation to buy.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr Edwards produced Olive Tablets the substitute for calomel

Dr Edwards a practicing physician for 20 years and calomel's old time enemy discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel just a healing soothing vegetable laxative mixed with olive oil

No griping is the keynote of these little sugar coated olive colored tablets They cause the bowels and liver to act normally They never force them to unnatural action

If you have a dark brown mouth—bad breath—a dull tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation you'll find quick sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr Edwards Olive Tablets at bedtime

Thousands take them every night to keep right Try them 15c 30c 60c—Adv

MURDERS HUSBAND

Woman Held After Making Confession to Police

HARTFORD, Conn., March 26—Mrs. Olive Adams faces a murder charge today as a result of the coroner's verdict of her husband, Harold Adams, meteorologist in charge of the local weather bureau. Mrs. Adams' arrest followed the signing of a reputed confession in which she admitted the woman admitted [illegible] the husband.

Mrs. Adams, the police allege, killed her husband while [illegible] them. The meteorologist has been in the habit of using a few drops of the anaesthetic on a handkerchief to [illegible] sleep. On Sunday night the authorities maintain Mrs. Adams saturated the handkerchief with chloroform instead of putting on the customary few drops.

The weather man's speed-ended life is given by the police as the motive for the crime.

HEAVY RAIN ENDS WARM WAVE HERE

Mercury Drops After Going to 83, Highest Mark of Spring

From summer weather yesterday to a decidedly chilly one this morning is the latest course taken by the weather in Marion with a heavy electrical rain storm between changes.

Yesterday the official thermometer registered 83, here the warmest weather of 1929 and unusual weather for March. The low mark reached last night which was 45 degrees is more typical of March.

Although the storm swelled Marion county river considerably no serious damage has been reported today.

Wind last night was responsible for [illegible] full of an outside [illegible] of the station of the Prospect Fire Engine Co. at Prospect. This is practically the only damage reported.

Lights in Marion flickered and died out several times when lightning struck lines here last night but at no time was the current off for over a few seconds. A transformer was burned out at Prospect and part of the service there was cut off for some time.

With the warm rain last night night crawlers made their annual appearance in unusually large numbers. They literally covered sidewalks throughout the city last night. Later in the night as the temperature dropped the rain changed to hail.

The chilled winds of this morning are scheduled to disappear tonight with the approach of fair weather for tonight and Wednesday. Wednesday will be warmer it is predicted.

Yesterday's high of 83 is higher by a dozen degrees than the temperature a year ago today when it was 41. The low last night of 45 however was much colder than a year ago when the low record was 31.

A total of 1.85 inches of rain was recorded for last night.

BUCYRUS WOMAN DIES OF BURNS

Mrs. Arthur Meck Succumbs at Monnette Hospital, Following Explosion

BUCYRUS, March 26—Burns sustained when a can of coal oil exploded caused the death of Mrs. Elsie Meck, wife of Arthur Meck, residing five miles west of here at 10 o'clock last night at Monnette hospital here. The accident happened about 9 o'clock yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Meck attempted to pour the coal oil on a small blaze which she had started in the kitchen stove. Her clothing was burned from her body before she could extinguish the blaze. Physicians resorted to a blood transfusion at 8 o'clock in an attempt to save her life.

Mr. Meck who was alone in the house at the time of the accident grabbed an overcoat belonging to her husband wrapped it about her and ran into the yard. After she had succeeded in extinguishing the flames she called her father who was a short distance from the house and medical assistance was summoned immediately.

Mrs. Meck was born in Mt. Vernon, May 22, 1896, the daughter of Lewis and Rose Curl Izem both of whom survive. Aside from her father, to whom she was married Aug. 4, 1921 and parents, Mrs. Meck is survived by a brother, Eleanor and three sisters and one brother, Dr. E. F. Izem of Cleveland. She was a member of Good Hope Lutheran church and Sunday school.

Funeral arrangements have not been made.

CRAWFORD COUNTY MAN IS CLAIMED

Conduct Rites for R. C. BeVier, Former School Board Head

BUCYRUS, March 26—Last rites for Reiley C. BeVier, 73, prominent Tiro citizen and president of the Tiro board of education from 1915 to 1921, who died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harry D. Moore, east of Tiro Sunday night, were held this afternoon at the Burkhill funeral parlors in Shelby. The Rev. Bruce Young, pastor of the Shelby Lutheran church officiated. Interment was made in Greenlawn cemetery at Plymouth.

Mr. BeVier was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Caleb BeVier and was one of a family of nine children. He is survived by only one sister, Mrs. Elizabeth BeVier; six children also survive. They are Mrs. Bell McPherson, Steubenville, Mrs. Harry B. Morrow, Warren W. BeVier, Vernon township, Ralph and William BeVier, Auburn township, and Chester BeVier, Shelby. His wife, formerly Mary Jane Wilson, was killed in a tragic accident at Shelby about one year ago when an automobile in which she was riding was struck by a train.

APPROPRIATION BILL IS DUE FOR PASSAGE

Measure Calls for $113,865,097 To Run State Two Years

COLUMBUS, March 26—Preparatory to its passage through the house tomorrow or Thursday, the general appropriation bill was in the hands of the house finance committee today. The measure appropriates approximately $113,865,097, including $17,420,000 from the various state funds such as the gasoline tax and motor vehicles license fees and $96,000,000 from the general revenue fund.

Immediately upon its introduction last night by Rep. William Wenk, Columbus, chairman of the house finance committee, the big bill was referred to the finance committee under suspension of the house rules. The items carried in the bill are designed to defray state governmental expenses during the coming two years.

The house committee to the codes committee the fifteen bill providing for the sterilization of certain dangerous classes of society. This action was taken when the bill was carried up on a question of passage because a number of amendments were proposed on the floor of the house.

Members felt that the proffered changes should be considered carefully by the committee which had recommended the passage of the bill. Other legislators interested the recommitment as a ruling, a motion of the house to have the bill the committee.

The Dean bill providing for protection of travelers on highways and safe guarding life and property at grade crossings was recommitted to the house committee on vehicles commerce.

FIRE SWEEPS SHIP IN GERMAN YARDS

Incendiarism Balmed as Europa Is Burned, Firemen Sink Liner

HAMBURG, Germany, March 26—Fire believed to have been of incendiary origin swept the new North German Lloyd liner Europa in the Blohm Voss shipyards today. When the firemen were unable to make any headway against the conflagration the liner was submerged in the Elbe river. Only her superstructure showed above the surface of the water this afternoon and it was still blazing merrily.

The fire started at 2 o'clock this morning, in the cooling room. Later however the firemen said that evidently fires had started in other parts of the ship at the same time. It was this circumstance which led to the suspicion of sabotage.

The North German Lloyd line offered a 1,000 marks reward to any one solving the mystery of the fires or giving definite evidence of incendiarism.

Newspapers today called the fire the biggest catastrophe in the history of German shipping. German Lloyd stocks dropped three points on the Bourse.

JUDGE GOES TOUGH; MAN FINED 4 TIMES

Wife's Assault Charge Leads to Liquor Violation Sentences

LISBON, March 26 — Thomas Cairns, Columbiana county resident, faced Justice of the Peace M. K. Zimmerman on an assault and battery charge placed by his wife. He pleaded guilty and was fined $25.

Deputy Sheriff James Elliott who made the arrest related that he found some liquor making equipment on Cairns property. Cairns said that was right and was fined $100.

Mrs. Cairns asked if her husband had had any liquor around the house lately said he had a bit on hand for a St. Patrick's day celebration. Tom admitted it and was fined another $100.

It was Deputy Elliotts task again and he told the court he had ruined his clothes making the trip to arrest the harrassed Cairns. Tom bought him a new suit.

Then Cairns and his wife went on home.

DEFENSE WITNESSES ON STAND IN TRIAL

Breck Lutes, Middletown Charged with Murder of Marshal

CINCINNATI, March 26—Witnesses for the defense gave testimony this afternoon at the trial here of Breck Lutes of Middletown who is charged with the first degree murder of Night Marshal Peter Daniels of North College Hill.

The officer was killed about a year ago when a gang of bandits held up the Pelican club roadhouse at North College Hill, robbed a score of patrons and then lined a file from sawed off shotguns and revolvers into the body of the marshal killing him.

One member of the gang, Rodney Ford is now in death row at the Ohio State penitentiary at Columbus awaiting electrocution as a result of his participation in the holdup and murder.

There was no session of court this morning on account of the funeral services for Marshal Daniels at St. Peters Catholic cathedral and the close of the defenses are not expected before Wednesday night.

CITY COUNCIL PASSES MOVIE LICENSE LAW

necessary. The examinations will be oral or written or both.

The ordinance as originally proposed by the local projectionists required three years experience as an apprentice before a license would be granted. This requirement was later cut to one year when the proposed ordinance reached council.

Framing Handicap

Since one person is all that is required to operate the regular motion picture projector the apprentice clause apparently will work considerable hardship on local projectionists. They will be forced to gain their experience away from Marion unless local theater owners are willing to pay the apprentice while he learns the trade. The ordinance specifies that the apprenticeship must be served in a theater. Graduates of trade schools will be allowed only three months credit on an apprenticeship.

Violation of the ordinance will be considered a misdemeanor. The penalty for violation will be a fine of not more than $50 for each separate offense.

The ordinance provides a fee of $5 for the original examination and $1 for each annual renewal and $1 for the examination.

BANDITS ACTIVE

Believe Gary Robbers Held Up Dairy Company

ADMINISTERING a crushing 30 to 8 defeat to the Central Christian quintet the Four Point Pioneer club became heavy favorites to cop the championship of the class C division of the Marion County amateur cage tournament which swung into action last night on the local Y floor In other Class C games Waldo Wildcats took a low scoring 10 to 7 game from the Vernon Heights Torch Club one of the pre-tourney choices In the final game the Trojan Pioneer Club walloped Room 23 of Central 41 to 18

At the close of the games last night the managers of the three teams winning first round games met and drew for the bye which had to be awarded in the second round Waldo Wildcats were the lucky five and will not play again until the finals Thursday night when it meets the winner of the Four Point-Trojan clash scheduled for tonight on the lower floor at 6 15 o'clock

Guthrie Four Point center was the big gun in the victors attack last night He scored six field goals while holding Hurd his rival tip off man to a single two pointer Harrold was the only man on the losers to show anything scoring four of the eight points The first half defense of the winning quintet was impregnable the losers failing to score

Vernon Torch Club cagers held their rival Wildcats five from Waldo on even terms during the second half but a 5 to 2 lead piled up in the first two periods was too great to overcome Gerfen scored six of the winners 10 points while Earl was high man for the losers with three counters The winning five will go into the finals Thursday as a result of drawing a bye and will be no worse than an even money choice against which ever of the Pioneer teams that manages to win tonight

Trojan Pioneer club cageman showed some hidden offensive strength as they hauled the Central Home Room five n 41 to 18 drubbing Jones and Williams the Pioneer forwards scored a total of 25 points between them with the former scoring 14 of them Foster led the losers with eight counters This unknown offensive strength may serve to upset the done bucket tonight when the Trojans clash with their rivals from the Four Point

Semi final rounds in all three classes of the tournament are scheduled for tonight on the lower gym floor starting at 6 15 o'clock At this time the two Pioneer club teams meet in the only semi final round game of C class At 7 o'clock the first of the two class B battles will get under way with the Harding Juniors meeting Presbyterians Forty minutes later the other B game will be played when the Central Junior quintet tackles Harding H S Class A semis will start at 8 20 with Steam Shovel and Standard Oil tossing the pellet around a few times The class A favorite Harding H S will meet the tournament dark horse when it tangles with Thurman at 9 o'clock

Probable winners tonight are Four Point Pioneers Harding Juniors Central Junior, Steam Shovel and H S Francis Bacon and Dewey Bohrer will referee Class A with Bud Lewis and Hugh Shults in charge of the other two classes

BOY PROMOTER WILL PAY FIGHTERS ONLY ACTUAL CASH VALUE

Dempsey Says Garden Can Have All Over-Paid Boxing Shows

BY DAVIS J WALSH

NEW YORK March 26—If he thinks a fight is worth no more than one million dollars he will bid one million and no more If Madison Square Garden thinks the same fight is worth one million two dollars and fifty cents Madison Square Garden can have the fight and also his very best wishes

Undoubtedly there are one or two gentlemen in this boxing racket who are slightly off their rocker as it were But neither of them is Jack Dempsey the boy producer and John proved it today when he quoted the general idea expressed above as his notion of how any promoter with the sense of a rabbit's errand boy should and must promote Of course the quoted idea represents only a free translation of the thought he expressed What he actually said that he would give a million dollars for one million dollars worth of fight and thirty dollars for any fight that might be worth no more than thirty one

Too many promoters overtly their hands and no smarter word has passed his lips since that far off night in San Francisco when he looked Jack Kearns in the eye across a battered dissolute table and used a terse three letter word meaning yes Plus fellow Dempsey is nobody's chump

He is as a matter of fact a smarter man as a promoter than he was as a fighter He says that he didn't obligate himself to Ray Miller for the Mandell fight except in the event that Ray beat McFarmin last week which Ray didn't That was what you might call un dumb business since a Mandell Miller bout probably wouldn't draw its own breath after what happened here in the McFarmin fight Dempsey was smart enough yesterday too to cover up by signing Max Schmeling for a June fight through the Germans dismissed but still legal manager Arthur Bulow All Dempsey was doing here was giving himself a break in case one was coming to him It was foresight such as this that made Richard great

New Champion Takes Five Rounds To Cop Dundee's Vacated Belt

CHICAGO March 26—Jackie Fields the California Hebrew whirlwind today found himself in possession of the welterweight championship of the world thanks to the National Boxing association and his own prowess as a fighter

Jackie won the disputed title in a 10 round mill with Young Jack Thompson negro coast mauler at the Coliseum here last night It was a event that will live forever in the minds of those present

The match was billed as a world title affair by Promoter Jim Mullen after the National Boxing association had declared vacant the welterweight throne of Joe Dundee To make the award more impressive Mullen gave the winner a diamond studded belt emblematic of the championship

Fields' lightning speed cleverness under fire and ability to assimilate punishment earned him a margin and he was entitled to the decision Thompson put up a great fight never theless and had not been so unfortunate in fencing he might have won

Midway in the eighth round a fight started between two of the spectators which caused a riot Spectators jumped into the ring and the fight halted

It was several minutes before an air of order could be restored and the fighters were permitted to go to their corners and rest

Thompson Groggy

Thompson groggy in the first and second round was coming strong in the rounds that preceded the trouble

In fact he had Fields on the run in the sixth round Thompson drove a series of vicious right hand uppercuts to the jaw at close quarters to gain the advantage and take the lead He kept right on coming in the seventh which he won by a slight margin

He was going great in the eighth before the customers took charge of the ring and stopped the fight

Fields won five rounds [illegible] second fifth eighth a Thompson won the [illegible] seventh and tenth the [illegible] seventh by clear margins and by a shade The other third was even

It was a rough tough scrap the action being fast and from the out set to the finish

Pondering on what the can do to the human race us should feel too important

CAREY JOINS AS FIGHT BOOMS

Takes All Credit For Success of Show

FRANK G MENKE

Editor's Note This is the second and final chapter by Frank G Menke detailing the inside angles of the Sharkey Stribling fight which largely explain why Jack Dempsey did not make a hookup as promoter with the Madison Square Garden Corporation

JUST about as soon as Jack Dempsey had settled into the job of promoting the original Sharkey Stribling fight he began to write telegraph and telephone his friends asking them how many tickets they wanted Most of them said None—unless they are right up in front Dempsey cracked back the answer that he would supply just such seats

Orders from Dempsey's friends rolled At the time the other folk seemed anxious to get any sort of seats for the Strib Shark bout The first intent of the Madison Square Garden crowd with its 600 millionaires

Now it's quite over for Dempsey to recall how he [illegible] the closing out

In the meantime Dempsey was training from 10 to 30 hours a day on the affair There were a thousand and one details to attend to and he plunged to them Morning noon and [illegible] he might be was behind his desk [illegible] on the [illegible] and as consequence it became apparent to the experienced newspaper group that if the fight didn't develop into a money maker for Dempsey it would not be for lack of trying on the promoter's part

Dempsey Puts It Over

The inevitable result was the hurry up trip of Carey to Miami He was host at [illegible] of the Garden and during hours of gaming the president Carey arrived and with him or after him came Madison Square Garden workers No longer was this Miami thing a bust it looked like a success and the Garden which had held aloof quickly jumped into the spirit of things and gave Dempsey the help he needed from the outset but didn't get until BY HIS OWN LIFEBOATS he insured the project against failure

Millionaires Interested

All of a sudden those 600 millionaires or a part of them or their relatives friends or neighbors—decided they wanted to see the fight They of course demanded the BEST seats no benefit 600 millionaires or acquaintances of 600 millionaires

The appeal apparently went direct to Carey and as vice president of Garden and the chief executive officer Carey an wrecked

The process according to the information which came to me at the time was quite simple Finding no more seats unreserved because Dempsey had been a salesman for all of them Carey called in those who were held on reservation When Dempsey's friends began [illegible] their success to get the best seats [illegible] Dempsey had promised them and which he had failed to [illegible] that such seats were unobtainable

Couldn't Make Good

And there was Dempsey in a very tough spot He was the man who had promised 6000 seats to [illegible] who had [illegible] and now that the fight seemed [illegible] to be [illegible] he couldn't make good

Just when Dempsey said to Carey when he found where the seats had gone or who Carey as the boss of the [illegible] said to Dempsey is this [illegible]

[illegible] never said the word [illegible] them that would explain why he was appearing in the role of a man who broke a promise He may have been blazing inwardly but there was no outward indication And the blame went upon Dempsey who wouldn't squawk

Carey Praised

After the fight was over Dempsey remained in Miami for a little vacation Carey returned to New York with the newspaper men Always affable and a splendid miser Carey was at his superlative best He spoke of those tough Miami days of the difficulty in promoting that fight to success He graciously thanked all the newspaper men for the help they accorded him The boys responded with reams of praise for Carey

When Dempsey still groggy from fighting the toughest battle of his career and making a success out of a venture where the odds were 100 to 1 against him landed in New York just about the first thing that greeted him was an interview given to newspaper men by Carey It was in answer to questions they put to him as to whether the Garden would make Dempsey a proposition to promote future shows

Then the Statement

That Carey statement in substance read — Whether or not we will make Dempsey a proposition depends entirely upon Dempsey If he can prove that he can promote a show success [illegible] ten of 10 sure it is likely that we will make him a proposition

Inasmuch as Dempsey had just accomplished the most successful promotion in fistic history when all fans were reckoned the statement was as big a surprise Jack read and re read it bit his lip—and then he squirted his jaw

After that there wasn't enough money in the U S Treasury to enable the Garden to hire Jack Dempsey in any capacity

Effect of Triple Holiday Poor Inducement for Buyers

BULLETIN

NEW YORK March 26—The persistent storm clouds broke with fury over the distracted stock market today the brokerage houses combed the financial district for money bidding as high as 15 per cent an hour before the official rate was pushed to that figure around noon rails and industrial stocks continue their nose dive to lower prices

NEW YORK March 26—Industry made a brave effort at recovery in trading today to retrieve part of the ground lost in the speculative selling which sent the market from all quarters the progress of the feeble rally which developed shortly after the opening.

With the money rate renewed at 12 per cent Wall street a little more encouraged over the money situation The remainder has said nothing about the account rates for the time being and nothing may be done along with all other methods of curbing stock borrowing bring about the desired results A huge fund will be required to pay April interest and dividend the first quarterly accumulation of the latter being the highest in history

Prices were in no great hurry to respond and the bargain hunters still on the fence waiting for the downward shower or two before

TODAY'S REVIEW OF YESTERDAY'S GRAIN

CHICAGO Ill March 26—Grain prices scored a moderate upward reaction yesterday from the sharp decline of the past week More favorable news for holders led shorts to cover and there was fair commission house buying Advances met with opposition but the close was strong particularly in wheat which finished at the high for the day

Closing quotations showed net gains of 3/4@1c in wheat Corn was 3/4@7/8c higher oats were steady to 1/8c up and rye was unchanged to 3/8c higher Winnipeg, which at future prices were relatively lower than local values and finished 1 1/4@1 3/8c higher for the day

Wheat Shorts Cover

Some upward reaction in wheat prices was generally expected following the sharp recent declines late last week Lower opening prices yesterday were attractive to local shorts and their buying together with commission house purchases on a bullish tone to the news brought an early rally of about a cent from the previous close

Scattered commission house and local selling based on reports of rain or snow in the Southwest and on the disappointing decrease of only 699 bu in the visible supply brought easier prices but the market rallied sharply again just before the close

Liverpool was firmer than due coming 1/8@7/8c to 1c Weekly statistics of the world movement were somewhat generally bullish Despite a 11 shipments of 20 992 000 bu 1 129 000 above a week ago on passage stocks decreased 105 000 bu Europe not only slightly above a year ago indicating 4 9 000 bu taken off the water The Canadian visible supply decreased 650 000 bu

Top Soil Needs Rain

Crop advices continued mixed though reports generally were favorable There was some bright on the concurrence of opinion of experts that top soil moisture is deficient in Kansas and Oklahoma No precipitation was reported in the Canadian Northwest

Talk of famine in Russia was revived Foreign weather is more favorable as are the crop reports although it is said Spring work on the Continent is being delayed Export demand continued quiet seaboard reported only small business on all positions. Cash wheat was steady to firm in the local mark with the trading basis unchanged to 1/2c higher Minneapolis spot market had a better tone

In view of Winnipeg's comparative strength Saturday and yesterday there was some spreading between the two markets with purchases in Chicago against sales at Winnipeg Spreaders were also buying September and selling May in the local market.

Corn Prices Choppy

Corn had an unsettled tone. Prices were moderately higher early, but later reacted, only to rally before the close Country offerings continued light and Indianapolis was reported outbidding Chicago in Illinois territory, but the effect of this was largely offset by continued offerings from outside markets. Bookings to the close totaled 90,000 bu., mainly from Omaha, Milwaukee and from Iowa points.

Commission houses were on both sides of the corn market, but on the whole, interest continued limited, and trade was not of very large volume visible supply were: Oats decreased 466,000 bu; barley decreased 466,000 bu

Cars inspected were: Wheat, 98; corn, 270 rye, 17; barley, 16.

In the cash market wheat was unchanged to 1c higher; corn steady; oats steady to 1/2c higher, rye, dull; barley, steady

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Two new garden delicacies appeared on the Marion markets this morning in the form of yellow wax string beans and asparagus The former may be had at 25 cents a pound while asparagus is selling for 15 cents a bunch Both will please the Lenten observer who may readily include them in his or her diet

There is a noticeable influence of Easter season on the Marion markets Many groceries are observing Lent some of them abstaining from sweets others from meat

As a special lure some Marion markets offer an Easter sale of Callie hams at 18 1/2 cents a pound Although small hams have recently went to higher levels they may now be purchased in Marion at prices ranging between 25 and 32 cents a pound

Oranges are somewhat cheaper today with some of the best California brands selling at 12 1/2 cents a dozen Two dozen for two bits is a normal price although the oranges are not large The highest priced oranges sell around 59 cents
